Syktuykar - Silicone Valley of the North

The Northern Russian city of Syktuykar has experienced a recent emergence as a national technology hub, leading to significant population and economic growth. The city tries its hardest to cater to tourists - and succeeds.

~~Things to know:~~ Thanks to the rapid growth, many places of interest appeared in the city, such as the Komi Museum of Modern Arts and monumental modernist buildings, created by famous architects, not to mention the natural landmarks surrounding the city. This was accomplished in large thanks to a local conglomerate, started in 2017 as a humble pizza restaurant. It provides housing, work and food for many locals. Their headquarters, Mauritius, a 600-meter skyscraper, is a landmark in its own right. Syktuykar has a modern, integrated public transport system, used by a majority of residents, after realizing that personal motor vehicles were going obsolete. Another reason to come to Syktuykar is to study. The Komi University is world-famous for producing talented programmers, who made great pieces of software and hardware. Free time can be spent in one of many parks, by going out of the city or seeing a local thrash metal band live.

In conclusion, Syktuykar has everything people love - ^{its own} charm, culture, sights and traditions, ~~not~~ found elsewhere in Russia. Visit Syktuykar, you won't regret it!
